CITIZENS BOOST

LaCrosse Sells a Good Example to Rhinelander.

The days when our sister city, Ironwood, could call us, in derision, the "sawdust" city have past and Rhinelander is today one of the most desirable residence and commercial towns in Northern Wisconsin. The center of the city can boast of well made and substantial street paving and cement sidewalks, with none of the cowholes that usually mar city streets. Our citizens are law-abiding and generous and their homes speak of comfort and domestic happiness, while business is ever on the increase and prosperity is the order of the day. Everybody is making money.

Business men here are reaping a harvest that has a tendency to narrow their vision for the future of Rhinelander. We should reach out for more industries and greater things. Fifty or one hundred new houses should be erected at once and a strenuous effort made to bring more factories and manufacturing plants, wholesale supply houses, bringing goods from the large centers in carload lots, these are openings for capital and will pay dividends. Let us boost Rhinelander.

The Milwaukee Sentinel's LaCrosse correspondent says LaCrosse will on next Wednesday afternoon lay aside all duties to attend a monster "Booster" celebration, a proclamation having been issued by Mayor Wendell A. Anderson, declaring the day a legal holiday. Vice-President Fairbanks and Gov. James O. Davidson have accepted invitations to deliver speeches on that day. Excursions from the neighboring towns will be run into the city and indications point to the gathering being one of the best ever held in that part of the state. The celebration is the climax of a booster campaign which is being carried on in LaCrosse. Its objects being a firm purpose on the part of the people to devote their energies to the promotion of the growth and prosperity of the city.

In order to raise the money to carry on an advertising campaign a consignment of buttons, lapins and stick pins were ordered and sold at a rate of 50 cents a piece. The buttons are of a neat design and bear the inscription, "Keep Your Eye on LaCrosse." Over $1,000 has been raised in this manner alone which sum will form a nucleus for a permanent fund to be devoted exclusively to the upbuilding of LaCrosse under the direction of the board of trade. Ways and means will be devised from time to time so that there shall be available money to be used for the advancement of the city.

Wausau wants a booster club and it has the material right at hand out of which to construct one. Get to work. Mayor Anderson has hit a happy thought and a winning one for LaCrosse. We can do the same—Central Wisconsin.

THE CHAUTAUQUA ASSEMBLY.

The Popular Chautauqua Assembly has pitched a large tent on Stevens Street between the Congregational Church and the Armory. A delay in getting out the advertising matters combined with the cloudy weather last Tuesday to make an unfavorable beginning, but the program was certainly worthy of a much larger crowd. The Philoline Male Quartette gave some beautiful selections and Miss Smith won the hearts of her audience with her pathetic and humorous readings. Several encores testified to the appreciation of the audience.

The cartoonist, Prof. J. Franklin Caveny is certainly an artist with the crayon, and on Tuesday afternoon and evening treated the audience to some "rapid fire" pictures, he is particularly strong with his "evolution pictures". Probably the heartiest laugh was caused when he took the cartoon of Rev. Mr. Hocking and with a dozen strokes changed it into a likeness of Rev. Mr. Gales.

The program for the rest of the week will be well worth hearing. Miss Lillian Phelps on "The Eternal City" tonight. Prof. O. W. Owen with his stereopticon and moving pictures Friday, and Hon. C. O. Morley on Saturday and Sunday afternoon and evening are all very strong attractions and will be well worth hearing.

ONEIDA HOTEL CHANGES HANDS.

R. E. Sauty of Green Bay recently bought out the Oneida Hotel furnishings of Mrs. Jake Draeger. Mr. and Mrs. Sauty have come to stay and wish to keep up the house and satisfy their patrons.

Mr. Jake Draeger will continue in his position as engineer on a logging road at Gagen.

ANOTHER TEACHER RESIGNS.

Miss Clara Christanson, who last year taught in the second and third grades at the South Park school, resigned Monday. Miss Alice Walsh of this city has been selected to take her place.

BUSINESS SOLD.

Part of Stock of Spafford & Cole Sold to David Jacobson.

A deal was consummated last evening by which the shoe and dry goods business of Spafford & Cole was sold to D. Jacobson of this city. This business has been owned by the retiring firm for the past fifteen years and has been conducted under the able management of D. J. Cole until his recent death. The location is one of the best in the city and has held a splendid trade. Mr. Jacobson's record as a merchant warrants the continued success of this large business. He came from Greenville last spring where he had conducted a successful store for thirty years and established a high grade dry goods store. The newly purchased store is now closed for inventory, after which the entire stock of Mr. Jacobson's present store will be moved to his new location which is of the finest business corners of the city.

BASE BALL.

IRONWOOD 1. RHINELANDER 2.
The game at the Fair, Saturday afternoon between Ironwood city team and the Rhinelander team was one of the best of the season. From the opening to the close there was good work by the members and both sides were looking for every advantage. Neither side made a score until the fifth inning when Ironwood made a single run. Not another score was made until the eighth inning when Rhinelander succeeded in making two runs and it looked at one time as though it might be a walk away for the Rhinelander team. Ironwood went to bat in the first half of the ninth and was struck out. Thus closed one of the best games of base ball ever played in the city.

The Sunday game contrasted greatly with that of Saturday. The paid members of the Rhinelander team acted careless and dead, and showed the effects of a night of dissipation. Ironwood succeeded in getting two runs the first inning, the third Rhinelander scored two and Ironwood one; in the fifth Ironwood scored two and in the eighth four more; the game stood 9 to 2 in favor of Ironwood. This game was not without its noticeable features. O'Mella's good work at the bat and on bases was the only thing which prevented a shut out of the Rhinelander team. O'Mella may be depended upon as a first class ball player; ready and willing to do his part. Wm. Acker did his full share in Sunday's game too.

HARVEY DRAMATIC COMPANY.

On next Monday evening the incomparable, Harvey Dramatic Co., with Nana Bryant, "The Girl with the Sun-kissed hair" in the lead supported by big "Ted" MacLean and a capable company of artists, will open a four nights engagement at the Opera House.

Never before in the history of the stage, has there been organized a repertoire company of equal merits, playing at popular prices and presenting the strong line of play that this company will present.

The opening bill will be the great labor play "Lost Paradise," the greatest labor play ever written, and the author David Belasco, that name alone should fill any house in the United States. Belasco stands pre-eminent as manager, writer and producer.

Special scenery, electrical effects and equipment to the extent of a carload are carried by this company, and the engagement here will be one likely not to be forgotten soon, by the playgoing public of Rhinelander. The scale of prices will be popular and the engagement will cover a period of four nights. Other plays to be presented will be selected from the following repertory: Graustark, Old Heidelberg, Virginia of Virginia, The Girl I Left Behind Me, A Soldier of the Empire, A Woman's Redemption, Prince Karl, Silent Witness, Heart of the Ozarks. The company will arrive over the Northwestern Sunday night.

COMING "PANAMA"

The most natural, realistic and picturesque play produced in recent years, is without doubt the new melodrama, Panama, a tale of the great canal, which is to be presented at the Opera House Sept. 18. The play tells a story of a young American civil engineer employed on the construction of the canal, and a Spaniard whose energies are directed towards the frustration of the work, but the American triumphs and the work is at last completed. Patriotism and love of country predominate, while a pretty love story is not the least interesting portion of the cleverly woven plot.

The richest of wholesome comedy is furnished by a yankee roustabout whose years have been spent in endeavoring to perfect an entirely senseless invention, a tom-boy girl, a widow and a Chinaman. There is not a dull moment in the entire performance.

BANNER FAIR OF 1907.

Management Will Clear About $1200.

Taking everything into consideration the 12th annual Fair was a decided success—the weather was good and the attendance large both from the city and surrounding towns.

While the exhibit was small, there were many reasons for this: It was a little early for fall produce and the recent hail storms leveled everything to the ground in the way of farm truck. However, there were some fine specimens of grain, potatoes and vegetables. The Three Lakes exhibits of stock of Campbell and Coleman are well worth mention. In the needle work department, while the exhibit was small, it was good.

There seems to be a variance of opinion regarding the Carnival Co., many citizens thinking it a bad plan to let such a concern take so much money from the county. This may be true but County Fairs cannot run on from year to year in the same routine. There must be "variety" to draw the crowds and it certainly was evident that the people flocked to see the shows.

The management has had hard luck for several years but this year's success will put them on their feet again so that many improvements and additions may be made, among them we understand will be glass show cases for needle work, which will be an encouragement to those who exhibit this class of work.

The officers of the Fair association are entitled to great praise for their persistent efforts in making this fair so successful.

F. F. SHOWERS ENTERTAINS GRADUATES.

F. F. Showers, principal of the commercial schools at Stevens Point, Antigo, Neilsville and Eau Claire, recently spent a day in the city looking after the interest of his business colleges. There is a large number of graduates of the Stevens Point school in the various offices of the city. Among the list are: Miss Susie Smith, Messrs. Robert Robertson, Louis Petey, Chas. Ball, Hon. Purdy, Will Wilcox, Chester Wilcox, Fred Smith and Harry Siewright.

While here Mr. Showers entertained them at the Fuller House. He also invited the editor of The New North as a principal under whom several of the Stevens Point Business College graduates had graduated before taking the business course.

Mr. Showers stated that those who secure the best positions are high school graduates and over sixty percent of the attendance at his school has already completed a high school course. At present, the demand for those who have taken a commercial course is so great that he is unable to fill it. Was there ever a time when industrious, qualified young people were more certain of securing good positions than today?

MARQUETTE COLLEGE.

Marquette College at Milwaukee promises to open under very auspicious circumstances September 3rd. There are seven hundred students assured and eighty-one professors to instruct them. The college provides courses in law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacy, together with high school, collegiate, scientific and commercial courses.

The school at Prairie du Chien has been turned over to the English speaking Jesuits, who will Americanize the institution and build it up as they have Marquette College in Milwaukee. The institution at Prairie du Chien is situated on the banks of the Mississippi river and has a fine campus for sports of all kinds. Boys from this city, Antigo, Merrill, Wausau and all parts of the state will be enrolled in these colleges. The tuition for ten months, including all expenses, $200.

COUNCIL ACCEPTS PLANS.

A special meeting of the common council was held Tuesday evening and the plans for the new school building which were drawn by Henry Wildhagen of Ashland, were accepted. G. A. Horn of Rhinelander, who was engaged to inspect the plans and specifications reported favorably. He was employed as superintendent of construction, his compensation to be 2 per cent of the contract price of building.

City Clerk Kelly was instructed to advertise for bids, said bids to be opened Sept. 17.—The Tomhawk.

OPENS TAILOR SHOP.

Jos. C. Hill, maker of men's fine clothes, opens a new store at 12 Brown St. He also does repairing, cleaning and pressing. Mr. Hill comes to Rhinelander with a large experience along his line. He was employed a long time by Brower & Krohm of Los Angeles, and later worked for Matthews Brothers, Temple, Texas. Mr. Hill is planning to make Rhinelander his future home and believes there is work enough for all. He has rented the Chafee dwelling on King Street and his family is moving in.

UNIVERSITY CORRESPONDENCE COURSES.

Prof. W. H. Lighty who has charge of the correspondence work at the State University, was in the city recently looking after the interests of his department. The coming school year, the university will be equipped for correspondence courses in preparatory, general and technical education. It is the aim of the university authorities to have the work of the university touch every corner of the state.

In towns where a few people take up a single line of work, groups are to be formed for study and the public library can be made the center for the gathering of the students for study and interchange of ideas.

Chicago University has been carrying on correspondence courses for some years but not giving the different communities so much attention as Wisconsin plans to do. Any person wishing to do individual works along any line will be provided for. The correspondence work will be accepted for half of a university course.

STRIKE OF TELEGRAPHERS.

Supt. Terhune of the Western Union Telegraph company appealed to Gov. Vardaman of Mississippi to furnish protection for the offices of the Western Union at Holly Springs, Grenada and Greenwood. The governor told him to appeal to the courts first. President Sylvester J. Small, of the Commercial Telegraphers' union, received assurance from President H. B. Perham, of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, that the financial support of the railroad men had been asked and that their first voluntary contribution would be at least $100,000. Representatives of the company asked Gen. Bell for troops to protect the office at Ashfork, Ariz., and were told to apply to the governor of the territory.

An armed mob attacked the office of the Postal Telegraph company at Ashfork, Ariz., and broke every window in the building with a rain of bullets. The lives of four of the employees were endangered, but no one was injured.

President Small gave out a statement showing that his general strike order had resulted in the quitting of many operators. He said very many new members were joining the union. The governments of the United States and Canada were urged to take over the control of the telegraph lines of the Western Union and Postal companies by telegraphers in a bulletin. Mr. Small also started a campaign for a congressional investigation into the conduct of the companies. The call for a strike of cable operators was rescinded. In Chicago the operators in six brokerage houses walked out. Samuel Conners, John Mitchell and Daniel J. Keefe were named a committee of the American Federation of Labor to try to bring about an end of the strike.

Twelve cable operators at Havana, Cuba, obeyed President Small's strike order and quit. Small asked the Chicago Federation for money to help the strike. Both sides were confident of ultimate success.

With emphasis he declared that the administration would not waver in its determination "to punish certain malefactors of great wealth."

ARMY IN CUBA COST $2,554,970 IN YEAR

QUARTERMASTER GENERAL REPORTS ON EXPENSE OF PRESERVING PEACE IN ISLAND.

NEEDS OF SERVICE ARE POINTED OUT

Urgent Necessity of More Commissioned Officers and Increased Funds Is Shown—Automobile Falls to Supplant Horse.

Washington, Aug. 24.—It cost the American government $2,554,970, in addition to the regular ordinary expense to keep the American army of Cuban pacification in that island during the fiscal year of 1907. This fact is shown by the annual report of Gen. Alessio, quartermaster general of the army. Of the amount stated $1,915,383 was spent for transportation.

Gen. Alessio devoted a few words to the work of the quartermaster's department and its ramifications over a great portion of the world covered by the United States and its territorial possessions, at the same time pointing out that the strength of the corps consisted of only 95 commissioned officers and 500 non-commissioned sergeants, in addition to 75 line officers, who were detailed in connection with the department's work.

Wants More Commissioned Officers. He points out the urgent necessity for such an increase in the number of commissioned officers as will relieve the department from the necessity of calling upon line officers to perform their duties; also for an increase in the number of post quartermaster sergeants and the creation of a general service corps for the work of the department. Gen. Alessio expresses the opinion that the limit of cost, now $20,000, for buildings which can be constructed without special authority of congress ought to be increased to $60,000. This is especially urgent with reference to hospitals. He says carefully prepared statistics show that the prices of nearly all the lumber used in ordinary construction have advanced fully 100 per cent. since 1904, and the higher grades of finished lumber even more than that.

Transports Coal at Nagasaki. Because it is economical, the bulk of the coal required for the trans-Pacific transport service is procured at Nagasaki, Japan, where upon the return trip to the United States all transports take aboard coal to their cargo capacity. Because of necessary repairs in the transports and reduced passenger lists and freight cargoes there has been an apparent loss to the government in the transport service as compared with what could have been secured from commercial lines, of more than $500,000.

Gen. Alessio, however, points out that there is value in having a fleet of vessels available at all times for the movement of troops and transportation of those ordered to take station in distant fields.

Supply of Horses for Army. Gen. Alessio devoted considerable space to the remount service. He believes that the results contemplated in providing for open-market purchases can be best obtained by the establishing of a remount service with a main office in Washington.

Discussing the subject of automobiles for military purposes, the quartermaster says tests of these machines and reports received as to their utility and cost of maintenance do not argue in favor of their substitution for any of the standard means of army transportation.

MYSTERY IN CHICAGO DEATH. Prominent Contractor Found with Broken Skull.

Chicago, Aug. 25.—The body of Evander Melvor, 40 years old, a prosperous contractor, found in a basement entrance to a building at Twenty-fifth and State streets, Friday, gave the police a mystery to solve. The man, who resided at 3554 Prairie avenue, and had offices at 3251 Cottage Grove avenue, was found by M. Montgomery, a workman. Members of his family believe he was murdered.

Death resulted from a fractured skull, and there were bruises on the man's body which led the police at first to believe that he might have been beaten. A dollar bill and some old change in his pockets caused the police to think that he may have fallen into the basement entrance, or that his assailants were frightened away after they had attacked him.

They all recognized it, and, with shrieks of laughter,

ST. LOUIS WELCOMES TAFT LEADING MISSOURIANS.

Usual Mound City Rains Interfere—Extols Negro in Kentucky Speech.

St. Louis, Aug. 24.—Secretary Taft arrived Friday from Lexington, Ky., and was met at the Union station by United States Senator Warner of Missouri, Former Judge Franklin H. Ferriss and others. As he passed through the crowd of spectators assembled he frequently paused a moment to shake hands. He was escorted to automobile and driven to the Plunket hotel, where he was the guest of honor at an informal breakfast. He is on his way to Oklahoma City.

A light rain rendered the day disagreeable and interfered with the programme that had been arranged for Secretary Taft's entertainment.

Lexington, Ky., Aug. 24.—"I am not a pessimist with respect to the race question. I am convinced that it is working itself out and I am convinced that nothing has so much contributed to its gradual solution as the thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth amendments," said Secretary Taft here Thursday afternoon in an appeal to Kentucky and the south to rally under the Republican banner.

"The negro is an American," he said. "He has no other country than this, and can have no other country than this, and called upon to defend it, he lays down his life with the same freedom that the white man sacrifices his. Ours is the flag he loves—the only one he knows. It is our duty to see to it that his path is made as easy as possible and that his progress is as unobstructed as proper encouragement can make it."

"If only under the influence of President Roosevelt's administration some of the southern states, including Kentucky, could be led into the Republican column in accordance with the real sympathies of the voters of those states it would be a crowning glory of his administration. It will not necessarily work for the benefit of the Republican party in the end, because the closeness with which the southern states have united in support of Democratic candidates and the Democratic party has introduced a similar cohesion among the northern states and we might expect much more independence of voting in the north if the voters there were not confronted with the solidarity of the south."

BRYAN SCORES TRUST MAGNATES Compares Them with Aristocrats of French Revolutionary Days.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 24.—William J. Bryan says in the Commoner issued Friday: "The French aristocrats of the time of the French revolution who showed their contempt for human rights and solicited about property rights, and yet they were in fact the deadly enemies of property and property rights, because their wantonness provoked the attacks which followed."

"The situation in this country today is not what it was in France prior to the revolution. The extremes of society are not so far apart nor have the evils now complained of been carried so far. And yet no one who has studied the situation can be blind to the fact that the arrogance of our financiers and greed of our railroad magnates and the aversion of monopolies are creating a gulf between productive wealth and predatory wealth, between the very poor and the very rich."

"Just now the trust magnates are hurling epithets at those who seek to destroy the trusts. They assume to be the special custodians of property rights, and charge anti-monopolists with communistic, socialistic and anarchistic designs upon the thrifty and the successful. As a matter of fact, the reformer has never been more grossly misrepresented than he is now by the monopolists. It is the trust magnate, not the opponents of the trust, who is striking at property rights. He trespasses upon the property rights of the small manufacturer and the retailer, and heartlessly drives him into bankruptcy."

TELEGRAPH OPERATOR CRAZED BY STRIKE

OLD ASSOCIATED PRESS EMPLOYEE INSANE THROUGH FEAR OF LOSING HOME.

IS CARED FOR BY FORMER EMPLOYERS

Money Begins to Come In—Monster Mass Meeting Planned That the Cause of the Strikers May Be Laid Before Business Men.

Chicago, Aug. 24.—An exceptional story of how a striking telegrapher was stricken with worry and how he was cared for is told in Chicago. When the telegraph operators of the Associated Press went on strike over a week ago among their number was Fred Terrell, who had been in the employ of the news association for many years. A month ago Mr. Terrell paid out all his ready money in the purchase of a home in Edgewater. To own his own home had been Terrell's ambition for years. Not being in a position to pay for the place in full he decided he would make the effort on the installment plan, agreeing to pay a certain amount each month until the debt was wiped out.

Had Little Money Left. Last week when he walked out with his coworkers all the ready money he had in the world was what was left of the week's salary he drew three days before and that pay he would receive for one night's work called. Terrell said he quit against his own judgment, but considered it necessary to walk out when the night force of the Chicago office left their keys.

Sits Down and Sheds Tears. Terrell was so greatly worried when he left his key that he went into the distributing room adjoining the telegraph office and sat down and shed tears. His fellow strikers tried to cheer him up, and finally prevailed upon him to leave the building. He went home and continued to worry over his position. After four days of this sort of thing all the time imagining that he was going to lose his little home, he lost his reason.

The officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America were notified of Terrell's predicament. After waiting 24 hours Mrs. Terrell telephoned his former employers the condition of her husband.

Cared for by Old Employers. Half an hour later Mr. Terrell was in a Red Cross wagon on his way to the German hospital through arrangements made by the Associated Press. A bed in the hospital was engaged and paid for by the organization. Expert physicians were provided for him, but his condition grew worse and finally the hospital authorities notified the wife that he had become so violent that it would be necessary to remove him to a sanitarium.

Come to Rescue Once More. It was again left to the employers whom he had deserted to come to his rescue. Thursday night Mr. Terrell was placed in a sanitarium by one of the managers of the Associated Press, who was sent personally by the higher officials of the association to look after the sick man's wants, and Mr. Terrell in the service took up a subscription to meet the immediate needs of Mrs. Terrell.

Key Men Say Cash Is Coming In. Announcement was made Friday by the leaders of the telegraphers' strike that the money sought in contributions from sources outside the union to help them amass the $2,000,000 strike fund called for by President Small, is beginning to come in at the rate of several thousand dollars a day. They will not say at this time where it is coming from.

Plan Monster Mass Meeting. A monster mass meeting at which the cause of the striking telegraphers was to be discussed was planned by the Commercial Telegraphers' union. Mr. Small said that he was the time had come when both sides were determined to meet the strikers' attitude was more stubbornness, that the telegraphers should go before the community and present their case fully. This idea will be presented to the local executive committee by President Small and will be acted on in the next day or so.

No Labor or Peril Too Great for Those Engaged in Sowing the Bible.

From China to Peru an Army of Trained Explorers Are Needed to Reach the Readers of the Nations--Many a Romance Might Be Written on the Work of Circulating
the World's "Best Seller."

WHEN all is said it is the Bible that is the world's "best selling book"—and that by a tremendous margin. It takes a tremendously successful novel to sell 10,000 or 50,000 copies in a year, whereas the Bible is easily beaten by the Bible in a single day the world over. Last year 16,000,000 copies, translated into a vast babel of nearly 500 tongues, were scattered broadcast over the earth.

The American and British Bible societies led the way with nearly 9,000,000 between them. It is hard to realize the magnitude of vast a work.

John Williams was 20 long years among the savages of Tahiti in the Pacific before he could produce even the New Testament in the islanders' own tongue. And old Bishop Schererowsky spent one-third of his long life doing the Bible into the "Easy Wen-I," a dialect of Chinese, that opened up Christian truths to 70,000,000 of the Celestial people.

Then there was the romance of Ibrahim Hingham. This man went out to the Gilbert group in mid-Pacific, and cast himself among South Sea cannibals as a Bible translator, with no written language at all, and no one to teach him. Day by day, this pioneer gathered words of common usage from the natives' lips and spent years comparing and verifying his written notes. Translating for Cannibals.

At last he was able to put the Lord's Prayer and a simple Psalm into the Gilbert tongue. Later on came the Gospels, and so on. But the first edition human over the great passes of the Andes between Bolivia and Peru; or again on the heads of cannibal coolies around the base of the Mountains of the Moon, near the source of old Father Nile; on camel-back across the burning deserts of Nubia and Arabia the Story; or in flat-bottomed boats towed by man-hauled bamboo cables, through the stupendous gorges of the Yangtze.

The men who do this work are trained explorers who often fall by the way victims to wild beasts, disease, hostile savages, and the forces of nature ranging from lightning to tempestuous seas. The American Bible society alone employs four or five hundred white men in savage or remote lands, literally from China to Peru. These in turn employ great numbers of native porters who travel inland upon waterways, over mountains, and through forests, with their packs on their backs or with strange caravans of laden men or beasts.

Brave All Dangers. The experiences of the Revs. Hear and Turner in the Philippines would alone fill a volume of varied adventure. Night and day on one tour they traveled through almost impassable swamps in clumsy ox carts, and barely escaped drowning more than once by the descending swift rapids on a rudely built raft.

In South America, from the Equator to Cape Horn, the Bible carriers are on the march, and the political revolutions, wars, storms, poisonous reptiles, and a thousand other obstacles only increase their enthusiasm. The an attacked by Kurdish brigands, or robust in overgrown lamas, where he has perhaps stayed a night or two, delayed by the terrible roads and broken bridges. In Siam and the Laos states at this moment the Rev. John Carrington is traveling on elephants and through devious waterways by boat, circulating the Scriptures in remote markets; in "wats" or temples, where the silver bells tinkle from on high; in opium dens and gambling houses, too, and remote villages, whose inhabitants live in pile-built houses, or in trees in case of attack by hostile tribes.

Turning for a moment to the far-stretching Philippine group, we find the Rev. Mr. Milroy almost heaving his way through impassable tropical growths, hurrying amazed crowds in fluent Tagalog at floras and cock fights, and selling them the Scriptures in their own tongue.

In the interior of Cuba travels Senor Torres, an old and tried Bible porter whose adventures would fill another book. Once, on coming back from Meron after having visited six towns, villages, and hamlets, Senor Torres' sub-belt was cinched, and lashing himself to the mast for four days he and his little crew oscillated between life and death. Another agent, reporting from the interior of Bolivia, where there are no roads at all and wheeled conveyances are impossible, carried his Bibles 1,000 miles on muleback, while another covered 22,000 miles in fourteen months, selling 8,573 books for $2,333.

Paying for Bible in Eggs. One of the most interesting workers is Mr. Archibald Forster, who from his headquarters in Jerusalem, carries Bibles to the Arab tribes east of the Jordan, and in the Arabian desert. They pay for the book in eggs. From Bangkok, in Siam, we hear from the Rev. John Carrington, who works the whole of this remote empire. It must have been awkward when one of his buffaloes, hitched to a cart containing Testaments in Siamese and Laos, suddenly bolted and scattered boxes and beds along the swampy track for half a mile.

Wolves Eat Packhorse. On one occasion a native assistant of Larson's was set upon by robbers, who beat him and took away his horse and saddle as well as his pack of books. Larson bought another animal in Urga for 28 tuciks—about $19. "But this one the wolves ate where he was tethered outside our camel-hair tent," der all chastenings they must try to be quiet and humble; but young hopeful finds it all very much of a bore, longs to be away to kick free heels in a very good and joyous world of green fields and still waters, and will have none of it.

To preach that life is a matter of eternal sacrifice to the exuberant joy of youth and health is to shake their faith in our doctrine as well as sanity. Religion, it is true, helps us to bear sorrow; but to speak only of this side of it is to make of it a matter of gloom, which is easily an injustice to the subject and a thing which will do more harm than good.

Youth should hear rather of the doctrine of that love which showers joy and happiness. Let the matter of sorrow be left always in the background until the end inevitable time comes when it must needs be inevitably faced.

Too sadly often is it true that life comes to be a matter of sacrifice sooner or later, but when it comes it is time enough to think of it or speak of it or preach resignation to it.

BEST NOT TO WORRY.

Little Gained by Dwelling on Forebodings of Disease.

A medical student looked up moodily from the pharmacopoeia that he was reading for next year.

"Modesty is a strange science," he said, in an awed voice. "Why, it is terrifying. Every little thing is a danger signal—a sign that you may soon begin to endure the tortures of some incurable disease."

"Suppose then in the dark you can't stand still, or that you can't with your eyes shut, either—you topple over. Well, that is the danger signal of locomotor ataxia, a disease of the most painful, the most hopeless, the most revolting nature."

"Suppose you begin suddenly to take on weight. You congratulate yourself. You compliment your cook. Then suddenly you perceive that you are taking on weight too fast, and your doctor informs you that you have got a tumor at the base of the brain."

The Milwaukee Northern Railway company has filed a statement in the office of the secretary of state declaring that it paid former State Senator C. C. Rogers of Milwaukee $1,096.62 for legislative services and $258.98 for expenses; Vice President T. W. Walker of Milwaukee, $565.51; Attorney E. H. Dutton of Milwaukee, $166.75; and Attorney F. C. Winkler of Milwaukee, $85, making a total of $2,168.26. The Wisconsin Association of Wholesale Liquor Dealers of Milwaukee filed a statement declaring that it paid $1,073.90 to legislative agents for services and expenses. Of this sum $450 was paid to Attorney W. J. McElroy of Milwaukee for services and $180 for expenses and $150 to Attorney James T. Drought of Milwaukee for services and $33.15 for expenses. Irving P. Lord of Waupun, representative of the Waupun Electric Light and Railway company, filed a statement declaring that his expenses were $9.50.

Mayor Hears Rate Board.

Prof. Halthaser H. Meyer has been elected chairman of the railroad commission of Wisconsin. He succeeds Attorney John Barnes of Rhineland, who resigned from the commission after the 2-cent passenger fare law was passed. Attorney John H. Roemer of Milwaukee was appointed as a member of the commission to succeed Mr. Barnes. The three members of the commission choose one of their number as chairman. The commission increased the salaries of three of its clerks. John F. Hechan, tariff clerk, and Cecil E. Scholten, statistician, were raised from $1,200 to $1,500 each, and J. Edward Usher, stenographer, from $1,000 to $1,200. The commission also granted a certificate of "public convenience and necessity" to the Wisconsin and Northern Minnesota Railroad company for the construction of a short line of road in and near the city of Superior. Attorney C. H. Crowhart appeared for the company.

Kronshage Made Regent.

Attorney Theodore Kronshage, of Milwaukee, was appointed by Gov. Davidson as a member of the state board of normal school regents to succeed Attorney John H. Roemer, who resigned to become a member of the state railroad commission. The appointment is for a term ending the first Monday in February, 1912. Lieut. J. O. Green and Attorney Paul Pratt, both of Whitewater and both former members of the state board of normal school regents, called on the governor and discussed the appointment of a member of the board from this city. Lieut. Green resigned to accept an appointment in the war department and was succeeded by Mr. Pratt. The latter has now resigned because he intended to move from Whitewater to Fort Atkinson. Attorney H. O. Hamilton is being urged for the appointment.

Labor Day Proclamation.

"In this favored land there should be no occasion for any but the most friendly relations between the workman and his employer," says Gov. Davidson in a proclamation issued by him designating September 2 as Labor day. "We are," he continues, "all American citizens, equal in political rights and the rule of 'live and let live' should be ever present in the minds of those who work and those who employ. Let Labor day mark the coming together for a better future and a wider opportunity for all those whose brain and brawn make for state and national prosperity." The governor recommends that all establishments in the state employing labor be closed on Labor day and that employers and workmen meet in friendly association and discuss in fraternal spirit the interests of capital and labor.

New Banks Are Chartered.

State Banking Commissioner Bergh has issued charters to the Bristol State bank, of Bristol, Kenosha county, and the Citizens' State bank, of Gillett, Oconto county. L. Henry Zaun is president of the first named bank and Frank J. Martin president of the latter bank. Commissioner Bergh also approved an amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Wealthy State bank, of Wealthy, Vernon county, increasing its capital from $10,000 to $25,000. Articles of incorporation of the State bank of Owen, Clark county, were approved. The capital of the Owen bank is $12,000, and its incorporators are A. H. Owen, J. G. Owen, E. A. Owen, W. C. Turris, J. F. Hughes, H. B. Crane, J. J. Selmer, W. G. Roy, N. H. Withee, and J. P. Weirich.

Railroad Commission Hearing.

The state railroad commission had a hearing on the application of the Wisconsin Central Railroad company for a rehearing on the orders of the commission requiring the company to continue its service on the Goodrich branch in Marathon county and to improve its service from Stevens Point to Portage. The commission did not announce a decision in either case. The company does not believe it should be compelled to maintain regular service on its Goodrich branch.

Fatal Storm Spread Ruin.

Reports from southern and northwestern Wisconsin indicate that severe storms have passed over those sections. William Cannonburg, a farmer near Kenosha, was killed in the presence of his wife in a barn near his home. He was on his way home and was forced to take refuge from the rain in the barn. His wife was prostrated. Lightning struck several residences at Augusta. At Menomonee it is reported that 30 buildings were struck by lightning in Dunn county.

Delegates Named.

Gov. Davidson appointed the following persons to represent Wisconsin at the fifteenth National Irrigation congress at Sacramento, Cal., Sept. 2 to 7: Sherman G. Spurr, Milwaukee; Senator A. M. Stondall, State Forester E. M. Griffith, A. J. Cobban, A. E. Proudfoot, Attorney Frank W. Lucas and A. A. Stelling, all of Madison; Thomas F. McDermitt, Rhineland; W. W. Patton, Chippewa Falls; Martin Patterson and W. W. Strickland, Superior, and Dr. Herbert M. Haskell, Oregon.

PLAIN TALKS WITH WOMEN.

Life Is to Many Persons a Matter of Sacrifice.

Is life a matter of sacrifice, asks Louise Satterthwaite in the Philadelphia Telegraph.

Many very worthy people, having gone through life and endured their share of its trials and misfortunes, atone their minds to the sombre key, and go softly the rest of their days; subdued and depressed, they dare not lift their eyes above the earth level of their sorrows; patient, it is true, but undeniably mournful, they round out the years of their pilgrimage.

But bounding youth knows naught of this submission, and to make it klan the rod, so to speak, when to it no rod is visible, far or near, is to breed up a spirit of impatience, not to say revolt.

We often behold an elderly aunt or perhaps a patient and devoted father or mother trying to make various young hopefuls see that they are prisoners in a vale of tears, and that un-

A noticeable change in the exhibit line was the work of school children. The management gave several pages in the book to exhibit from the different grades, but it was a waste of space as practically no entries were made. The children of the schools are capable of making fine exhibits. Teachers and parents, why not encourage them to have their best efforts show at the 13th Annual Fair. Let every one plan now to add in making next year's fair bigger and better in every way. In unity there is strength.

Now that the city has employed one of the best law firms in the state to search out the validity of the water works bonds against the city and that attorney says if the original water works cost less than about sixty-two thousand dollars that the trust deed is invalid and consequently the bonds are invalid we should never pay another cent of interest on the bonds but let the bond holders do the worrying and we should fight their every move to collect their illegal bonds and illegal interest. If the bonds were not illegal there is a great question as to whether the bonds would cover anything but the old original water plant. In spite of much talk that the bonds hold all extensions Attorney Green reasons that the case is not like a mortgage on a property and consequently the bonds would cover nothing but the old plant. Again he argues that the excessive interest we have been paying on actual cost may be construed by a court that we have paid about what the plant is worth. He ends by saying that we have no right to vote upon the proposition as offered by the bonding company, and the council met last night and postponed the election indefinitely. Mr. Green is a great attorney, his experience has been broad, the council is right in postponing the election. Although the officials thought the city ought to own the water works they show the right spirit in immediately taking steps to carry out their part on the decision of Attorney Green. If the bonding company gets any more money, let them get it at the end of a supreme court decision. There is little doubt that the voters will stand by the council in sustaining this action. They have already expressed their opinion as against the bonding company's proposition by a large majority.

RACES AT STATE FAIR

The racing events of the Wisconsin State Fair to be held at Milwaukee from Sept. 9 to 15, will attract thousands of men and women who never cease in their enthusiasm over the achievements of high bred racing horses.

The automobile can never displace the horse when it comes to racing. For many weeks entries for various big races have been received and they are of the kind that indicate records broken. The Board of Agriculture has appropriated a total of $27,500 in prizes for the speed department which is an amount larger than that offered by other State fairs and sufficient to attract the best strings of horses from all circuits.

In addition to the regular trotting and pacing events, the exciting Ladies' Relay Running Races will be repeated, 5 miles being run each afternoon, the final reward to be made on Friday the closing day of the fair. Then too, there will be running races in the evening under the searchlight. These races are spectacular in the extreme and always attract a large attendance.

In anticipation of immense crowds the grand stand has been enlarged and for the accommodation of those who want them many boxes have been erected along the lower level of the grand stand, affording an unusually fine view of the race track.

The regular racing programme will begin Monday afternoon, Sept. 9, and continue each afternoon, with great big events for Wednesday, State Day, and Thursday, Milwaukee Day.

HAD AN AWFUL TIME.

But Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy Cured Him.

It is with pleasure that I give you this testimonial. About a year ago when I had a severe case of the measles I got caught out in a hard rain and the measles settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had not been for the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not have possibly lived for a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy I am now strong and well. I have written the above through simple gratitude and I shall always speak a good word for this remedy.—SAM H. GWIN, Concord, Ga. For sale by Hinman & Co.

With coats off and sleeves rolled up three clergymen of our city, Evans, Hocking and Gales, might have been seen doing the strenuous "stunt" on Tuesday afternoon, assisting the Rev. A. B. Soule erect the large tent for the Chautauqua Assembly; Mr. Hocking swung the sledge hammer, with real Congregational energy, while Mr. Evans tightened the ropes in true Methodist style, and Mr. Gales—well, he was manager of the "Circus."

LETTER TO MR. EMERY HAMLIN.

Rhinelander, Wis.,

Dear Sir: When you can buy paint for less than Devco; don't save your money.

Mr. Aaron Higgins, Mainfield, N. J., always used 15 gallons of paint for his house; Devco took 11.

Mr. Ezra Rathmell, Williamsport, Pa., always used 11; Devco took 6.

Mr. Burt Young, Girard, Pa., always used a gallon for certain rooms; took half as much Devco.

Mr. Nathaniel Barber, Canton, N. Y., bought 12 Devco; used less than 6.

You can always buy paint for less than Devco; don't save your money.

The wearing counts the same way and doubles the difference.

The cost of painting is by the gallon. Weak paint costs most; most gallons.

D. Hobart Lingillet--Representing a Door-knob Firm

"What's your line?" asked D. Hobart Lingillet of the only other occupant of the room. Mr. Lingillet was sorry for a man who preferred "taking from" and "adding to" in a note book to being entertained by such a general favorite in society as himself. D. Hobart was a "regular case" when he got started. It looked promising when the other man closed his book with a frown. Mr. Lingillet was ready with a cigar.

"No, thanks," declined the man. "I believe you asked me what my line is? Why, I'm with the—"

"Mine's door-knobs," interrupted D. Hobart. "L. G. Turner & Co. Fine people to be with—treat you white. I've been with them now going on two years, and I couldn't ask for better treatment. Had lots of chances to go with other concerns, but my firm wouldn't hear of it. Funny part of it is I'm independent as a pig on ice. I say what I think, whether it's to the boss or anyone else. And I get away with it, too. Why, L. G. and the stockholders will take anything from me. Now, for instance, I said to the boss, 'Look a' here—'

"Going? What's your rush? 'Night. Turning in myself soon."

"Surely fellow that," remarked Mr. Lingillet to a young man who just entered. "Can't draw him out. One of those cranks that go around the world and only speak to officials and waiters. I believe you can learn a lot talking to people."

"Why, I can make friends anywhere. I attribute my business success to this quality. Everything in knowing how to handle people—for you can't deal with any two men alike. I meet some tough proposi-

much for girls as a general rule. The average girl makes me tired. But you're exceptional—you can understand a chap. I tell you it means a lot to have a little sympathetic understanding to a man knocking about the world as I am and continually thrown among strangers. When I strike but-fate and can come up here, it's an inspiration to me for weeks afterward. "You'll be glad to hear I've done a smashing old business this trip, and I expect things will be softened up for me a while lot the coming year. I've never before been in a position where I could be fixed just as I'd want to be and have a place of my own, with automobiles and all that sort of thing—but it's coming now!"

"Have you any objection to my calling you Belle?" I feel as if I had always known you, though I admit our acquaintance hasn't been of very long standing. Still—if you really like a person—you get better acquainted with 'em in ten minutes than with others in ten years."

"As I've said before, I don't care a rap for girls. Of course you are an exceptional girl. A little girl I know back home—who, by the way, thinks quite some of me—says I'm a woman hater. But I'm not, really. Just absolutely indifferent."

"Say—do you know Dwyer, of Dwyer & Co., big hardware people here? I had lunch with him to-day. Fine fellow. Closed him up for a big order. I tell you I'm getting the business. What's my line? Why, I thought you knew. I'm quite sure I must have mentioned it last time I called up here—Door-knobs. L. G. Turner & Co."

"Door-knobs?" repeated Miss Arnold

Man, I'm glad to hear it! Of course, I never knew Miss Brookings very well—but she seemed a terribly nice girl. Hope you'll be happy, old man. Remember me to your dance when you see her. You're certainly in luck. But say—some time I want you to meet Jess. She's a great girl, I tell you. And what she doesn't think of me! Say—it's an inspiration to a man to have a girl like that think you're it. By the way, I just happened to think there's a dear little girl in this town that I must look up before I leave—"

"Good afternoon, Mr. Harding. Can I do anything for you to-day?" asked Mr. D. Hobart Lingillet, as he nervously finkered his sample cases.

"What? You still representing L. C. Turner & Co.? You go back and tell 'em when they send a man—mind you, I said a man—out here to get my order. I may do business with 'em again. That's all, sir!"

When Mr. Lingillet was two blocks down the street, he actually shook his fist at the cross man.

D. Hobart Lingillet stood before the door of the private office of the great "L. G." president of the Turner Door-knob concern. There was something about the knob on President Turner's door that fascinated, yet repelled, Mr. Lingillet. There wasn't a door-knob turned out by that vast manufactory that could inspire such unpleasant thoughts in the mere turning as that on President Turner's door—when somebody had been sent for, D. Hobart took hold of it gingerly, as if it were a live wire.

"Did you wish to speak to me, Mr. Turner?" inquired Mr. Lingillet, timidly presenting himself before the great "L. G."

"Brrrrrr!" came from behind the big desk. President Turner seemed like Addison's description of a puss—"a sound, and nothing but a sound."

D. Hobart swallowed hard. It annoyed him to have his throat suddenly become so dry just because he was in the same room with "the Boss."

"Yes, sir," murmured D. Hobart, faintly.

He had lots of time, before the Boss again noticed him, to try standing first on one foot, then on the other.

"Brrrrrr!" said the Boss, after he had signed several dozen letters.

"Let's see—what's your name? Oh, yes, you're Dan Lingillet. I merely wanted to tell you, young man, that you've got to cut down that expense account of yours, and show a decided advance in your sales or—"

"Yes, sir, I understand. Thank you very much for giving me another chance, sir!"

"Brrrrrr!"

The Cherry—There's a new heart interest in Lingillet's watch—and he's saying "Look a' here" to a new "Boss."

A Label That Hurts.

They stopped to read a large sign engraved in stone in front of a home for women in Harlem. It read like this:

"INDIVIDUALS WHO ARE 'Labeled' AND INDULGED."

"They call it indulgent females up here," said the girl as they walked on. "They have to pay a little some times to get it there."

"I should think they would call it indulgent," remarked her friend, the woman. "It's bad enough to be called respectable, but they'd have to pay me to live behind a sign that called me an 'aged and indulgent female.'"

"All at Sea."

"Gentlemen," recently said a German professor, who was showing to his students the patients in the asylum, "this man suffers from delirium tremens. He is a musician. It is well known that blowing a brass instrument affects the lungs and throat in such a way as to create a great thirst, which has to be allayed by persistent indulgence in strong drink. Hence, in course of time, the disease you have before you."

"Turning to the patient, the professor asked:

"What instrument do you blow?"

"The violoncello,"—Illustrated Bits.

Blind Swimmers Swim Straight.

It is a puzzling fact that blind swimmers are able to hold an almost perfectly straight course for considerable distances, though no more guidance is given to them than some species of call or whistle from the end of the course. A blind man, in fact, desiring to go in a straight line, possesses the curious power of being able to do so almost exactly.

Small Flow of Tide.

The tide of the Mediterranean on the Algerian coast never exceeds three and a half inches.

Sporting Gossip.

II. Chandler Egan of Exmoor for the fourth time is western amateur golf champion. Defeating Herbert F. Jones of Wheaton 5 up 4 to play in the 36 hole finals of the ninth annual Western Golf association tourney at the Chicago Golf Club, the Exmoor player who has twice held the national honors, won back in decisive fashion the sectional title he captured in 1932, 1934 and 1936.

The result gives the Egan-Exmoor combination a claim to all club and family championship records, including the 1932 tournament, which Chandler's cousin, Walter E. Egan, won, the "trust" has gobbled up five out of six successive westerns. Egan, while not playing his top game, was in "champion" form for a great part of the trip. Jones repeatedly erred on the putting green and in his short approach game. Egan won 1 up at the end of the first nine holes in the morning and 3 up at the half-way mark. He was still 3 up at the twenty-seventh hole. Jones took the twenty-eighth, and lost the match when Egan won the next three.

George Stovall and Frank Delahanty, who were suspended by the Cleveland American league baseball club several days ago, will become members of the Reading, Pa., club of the Atlantic league, according to an announcement made by the management of the Reading club. The Atlantic is an outlaw league. According to the manager of the Reading club Stovall and Delahanty have accepted the club's terms and will receive more money for their services than ever has been paid baseball players in a local club. The Reading club has a rival in the Reading club of the Tri-state league and the struggle for public favor has led the former to make extraordinary effort to add to its strength. Stovall, up to the time of his suspension as the result of throwing a chair at Lajoie, had done good work for the Cleveland team this season. He had more putouts than any other first baseman of the American league, next to "Jiggs" Donohue, and had a fielding percentage of .980. While he had not a very lofty batting percentage, he was capable of doing strong work with the stick.

There was one man at the inter-collegiate regatta at Poughkeepsie who had a perfect right to say, "I helped win the race," if any one of four varsity eight men of the school contest. It was John Hoyle, of Indiana. He built the toothpick-like cedar shells in which Cayman, Pennsylvania, Williams and Annapolis rowed the heart-breaking four mile course down the Hudson, and under the high railway bridge. Seventeen years ago John Hoyle was a boat builder's helper in Philadelphia. He decided to go into the construction of racing shells. An eight-oared boat which he turned out attracted the attention of Charlie Courtney, the Cornell coach, and Hoyle was invited to Ithaca. Eventually he accepted a regular salary from the Cornell navy, but a few years ago he opened his own shop and has since turned out many winning boats. This was his banner year, with four of the crews in the big regatta rowing "Hoyle's." He has taken up every innovation in racing craft that came along, and tried it out thoroughly. He spent two years as a winner for Cornell and a third year for Cornell and the University of Pennsylvania. He has come back to old reliable cedar strips, and all of his boats this year are of that material. The dimensions of college racing craft vary slightly, according to the ideas of the various coaches. Hoyle holds that the best boat for the Poughkeepsie course, where provision must be made for tide rips and swells, is 61 feet in length, 23 inches breadth, and nine inches depth amidships. For the short, jerky stroke used by Annapolis, he built a shorter, stiffer craft. As the big colleges demand a new boat for every varsity crew, Hoyle finds contracts which keep him busy the year round. Of course, a shell is not worn out in one race, and is used a second year by the freshmen crews of the school. He has a shell which he sold to a western rowing college. Thus it came about that a Hoyle shell won the recent match between the University of Washington and Stanford, on Lake Washington, at Seattle.

Charles H. Ebbetts, president of the Brooklyn Baseball club, has announced that Patsy Donovan will be retained as manager of the Superbas next year. He says he is more than satisfied with the team's showing under Donovan, and that the team will head the second division this year. Next year there will be few changes on the team, so Ebbetts says, and he expects to better than last season's division. "We couldn't find a better man than Donovan for manager," concluded Ebbetts, "and he will be in charge of the team in 1938 and likely for years to come."

IDEAS FOR HOSTESS

Attractive Booth Seen Recently at an Entertainment for Charity—Birth-day Party for Baby.

Entertainments for charity, both elaborate and simple, are engrossing the attention of society folk at all the summer resorts.

A most attractive booth at one of these affairs is worthy of description; it may be carried out with very little expense, which is an item to be considered. It was called "The Morning Glory Fair." The space occupied was triangular and the foundation of alder and front was constructed of bamboo poles. Interlaced over this was a bewildering tangle of morning glories in delicate lavender, pink, blue and white. The attendants wore thin gowns of these same colors with lingerie hats trimmed with wreaths of morning glories.

Under a large umbrella, which was completely covered with "glories," tea and waters were served. Each guest was presented with a morning glory clipped from the trellis. These blossoms planned to coat lapel and gown served to advertise "morning glory" tea all over the grounds. They were made of crepe tissue paper of various hues.

Birthday Party for Baby.

This pretty party was given for a one-year-old boy. The invitations were blue print postals of the young host taken with his pet dog, and they requested 12 babies to come on a bright summer day with their mothers and nurses to his house to play.

A large blue comfort was put on the lawn for the small guests to roll, kick and tumble to their hearts' delight. A large table was set with tin cups, and the name cards tied to the handles with baby wash ribbon (pink for girls, blue for the boys).

There were beaten biscuits cut in rings, plenty of milk and wieners, peppermints. On the dining table the large birthday cake with its one pink candle was the centerpiece and the mother sat around it while orange sherbet was served to them. From the overhead light a dozen wooden balls with bells inside hung suspended by ribbons. They were souvenirs of the happy occasion and were marked with the name of the birthday boy and the date. Teddy bears, a stuffed kitty and dog had places at the baby table as well as a much beloved rag doll who rejoiced in the name of "Polly Ann."

For a Porch Party.

The porch party is a most acceptable form of summer entertainment. One given recently not only provided a delightful morning for guests and hostess but resulted in furnishing a joyous surprise to 35 children at one of the Fresh Air Sanitariums.

"Black-eyed Susans" were the exclusive decoration, and their gorgeous coloring was a joy. They were massed in great bunches in brown jugs and bamboo holders and the effect was lovely. The invitation cards were ornamented by one great flower done in water-colors and said: "Thinblies, but bring no work."

After reading a jolly tale from one of the magazines the hostess produced bean-bags made of red denim, which were to be filled from a jar of beans and the ends sewed up. These were taken to the children the next day by the hostess and many of her guests as could arrange to go. It was pathetic to witness the joy of the children when told the bags were to take home. Possession means so much to these little folks, many of whom are practically homeless and friendless. At 11 o'clock fruit punch and home-made cookies were passed, the party breaking up at noon. These morning affairs from "10 to 12" are much in favor this season.

Infants' Shoes

The soft little embroidered shoes so popular just now are very expensive to buy, but fascinating, as well as cheap to make. It is quite the fun to have them match the cap, both in material and design. With a cashmere cap, for instance, would go cashmere shoes, while sheer handkerchief linen is used for the lining of cap. For lining the latter a firm, heavy silk is needed, with more "body" than that lining the cap.

Equally suitable is the French flannel, white corded silk or even an art linen (not too heavy) for this diminutive footwear. For slightly older children the shoes are often made up in the heavy linens in pale shades of pink, blue and even red.

When the embroidery, which should be done exactly as on the cap, is finished, cut out the pattern carefully following the dotted lines. Sew up the back in a tiny seam, bind it if the shoe is not to be lined. Then join the notches of the top to the notches in the sole, and sew very neatly together. The lining is made exactly like the outside and fastened to it.

The two small straps are pieces of the material buttonholed, and sewed by the diagonal line to the top of the shoe at each side after it is made up. These fasten around the ankle with a button and buttonhole.

Such small shoes may be charmingly developed at almost to cost out of old remnants of silk. They make very attractive little birth gifts and are now much more generally given than socks.

IDEAS FOR HOSTESS

Attractive Booth Seen Recently at an Entertainment for Charity—Birth-day Party for Baby.

Entertainments for charity, both elaborate and simple, are engrossing the attention of society folk at all the summer resorts.

A most attractive booth at one of these affairs is worthy of description; it may be carried out with very little expense, which is an item to be considered. It was called "The Morning Glory Fair." The space occupied was triangular and the foundation of alder and front was constructed of bamboo poles. Interlaced over this was a bewildering tangle of morning glories in delicate lavender, pink, blue and white. The attendants wore thin gowns of these same colors with lingerie hats trimmed with wreaths of morning glories.

Under a large umbrella, which was completely covered with "glories," tea and waters were served. Each guest was presented with a morning glory clipped from the trellis. These blossoms planned to coat lapel and gown served to advertise "morning glory" tea all over the grounds. They were made of crepe tissue paper of various hues.

Birthday Party for Baby.

This pretty party was given for a one-year-old boy. The invitations were blue print postals of the young host taken with his pet dog, and they requested 12 babies to come on a bright summer day with their mothers and nurses to his house to play.

A large blue comfort was put on the lawn for the small guests to roll, kick and tumble to their hearts' delight. A large table was set with tin cups, and the name cards tied to the handles with baby wash ribbon (pink for girls, blue for the boys).

There were beaten biscuits cut in rings, plenty of milk and wieners, peppermints. On the dining table the large birthday cake with its one pink candle was the centerpiece and the mother sat around it while orange sherbet was served to them. From the overhead light a dozen wooden balls with bells inside hung suspended by ribbons. They were souvenirs of the happy occasion and were marked with the name of the birthday boy and the date. Teddy bears, a stuffed kitty and dog had places at the baby table as well as a much beloved rag doll who rejoiced in the name of "Polly Ann."

For a Porch Party.

The porch party is a most acceptable form of summer entertainment. One given recently not only provided a delightful morning for guests and hostess but resulted in furnishing a joyous surprise to 35 children at one of the Fresh Air Sanitariums.

"Black-eyed Susans" were the exclusive decoration, and their gorgeous coloring was a joy. They were massed in great bunches in brown jugs and bamboo holders and the effect was lovely. The invitation cards were ornamented by one great flower done in water-colors and said: "Thinblies, but bring no work."

After reading a jolly tale from one of the magazines the hostess produced bean-bags made of red denim, which were to be filled from a jar of beans and the ends sewed up. These were taken to the children the next day by the hostess and many of her guests as could arrange to go. It was pathetic to witness the joy of the children when told the bags were to take home. Possession means so much to these little folks, many of whom are practically homeless and friendless. At 11 o'clock fruit punch and home-made cookies were passed, the party breaking up at noon. These morning affairs from "10 to 12" are much in favor this season.

ARE PHYSICIANS' PRESCRIPTIONS NOSTRUMS?

To one not qualified, and few laymen are, to discriminate intelligently between physicians' prescriptions, proprietary medicines and nostrums, it may seem little short of a crime to hint even that physicians' prescriptions are, in any manner related to nostrums; nevertheless, an impartial examination of all the facts in the case leads irresistibly to the conclusion that every medicinal preparation compounded and dispensed by a physician is, in the strict sense of the word, a nostrum, and that the average, ready-prepared proprietary remedy is superior to the average specially-prepared physician's prescription.

What is a nostrum? According to the Standard Dictionary a nostrum is "a medicine the composition of which is kept a secret." Now, when a physician compounds and dispenses with his own hands a remedy for the treatment of a disease—and it is authoritatively stated that probably 60 per cent. of all physicians' prescriptions in this country are so dispensed—the names and quantities of the ingredients which constitute the remedy are not made known to the patient. Hence, since its composition is kept a secret by the physician, the remedy or prescription is unquestionably, in the true meaning of the word, a Simon-pure nostr

WHAT OF THE FUTURE OF THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR?

THE future of the American Federation of Labor? The question was put to Frank Morrison, secretary of the great labor organization. "If the American Federation is the ultimate form in which labor shall unite to press its case against capital—that is, to preserve itself and prosecute its advances in the struggle of human development—then I think I can answer that question in a few words," he said. "We think it is; we think it is an ideal form of organization, just as we as Americans think that our motto form of government in the United States is the best form of government. No man who is other than a fool, however, thinks the government of the United States is a perfect government. Most of us realize that it is very far from perfect. "Experience teaches that the steady progress that is thoroughly grounded in the best progress. The flag that is slowly advancing with an intrenched army behind it maintains its position. By all this I simply mean to say that the many failures of the past have not been lost upon trades unionism, for they teach patience in what may seem to be slow progress and that ultimate, complete success of the movement is more assured by our being thorough as we go along. The work we have to do is to educate. 'Organize! organize!' is the slogan, but the organization is the first means toward education. It is the class, the school. It is the first essential. It is the first impulse of the awakening mind. The —educate every man to know his rights and the rights as well as the power of capital, to know what to ask for and what not to ask for, to know when to ask, to know when to substitute the word 'demand' for 'request,' and finally and most vitally, to know how to enforce that demand. That is the American Federation of Labor. It is the greatest labor organization of the world. "They will tell you that the interests of labor and capital are identical, that they should live together in peace and harmony; the welfare of one is the welfare of the other, and all that. Of course it is. To the unbiased this is as fundamental as the truth of organization. But the trouble is that capital, like labor, is primarily ignorant—especially is capital ignorant of this fact. It can't be taught without demonstration. It lacks the point of view, and no lesson is so hard to instill as that. It is warm and well fed and it is labor that makes it so. The more subservient and the cheaper the labor on the one hand, the more wealth and luxury on the other. How can the beneficiary of such a condition understand that the increase of wages, the reduction of the hours of labor, the general uplift of his employees, is to his benefit? He cannot see it. To him this great truth must remain forever obscure. "The securing of right and justice to one man better the whole world. Raise the level of an intelligence and mankind of the great mass of the people and the world will be a so much better place to live in than now. We are recognizing it for the place that it was; those that had the best there minute the working man realizes that he is a man and not a slave he calls to his fellows to unite with him for betterment. "United they begin to devise ways and means. They plan how they may secure this and that that they know, as men and not as slaves, they should have—that belongs to them by right. They are at an immense disadvantage because they are not only without means, dependent upon the power they are attacking, but more than all else, they are inexperienced, ignorant. They make mistakes and are humiliated and their organizations broken and scattered and they are individually made to suffer and are reduced to still more abject poverty. The weaker among them are made weaker and more timid still, but the naturally strong are developed in strength and grow in wisdom. They see wherein the weakness of their former movement lay and they go among their fellows and point it out to them. They see even as they did not see before that only through uniting can they ever be emancipated from their state of slavery. "That is so fundamental a truth that it is patent. No one disputes. When the non-union man frets at what he calls the domination of the union he forms a union to oppose it. This is the amazing spectacle that this particular brand of the spirit of liberty has reserved for modern eyes. Only by union can headway be made by poverty-stricken individuals against the intrenchments and fortifications of capital. Organize, organize, organize. Organize unions, unite these unions together into other unions, and these unions into still other unions, one intrenched behind and reinforced by the others; drill, discipline, educate

URGES A "LABOR SUNDAY."
Rev. Charles Stelzie Proposes to Honor the Toolers.
Rev. Charles Stelzie, who has become well known because of the interest he has taken in the recent movement to establish a "Labor Sunday," thus writes the Labor Advocate on that subject: "Just as Memorial day and the several 'birthdays' show our appreciation of those who rendered patriotic service, and just as the churches' 'holy' days do honor to those who have served mankind spiritually, so 'Labor Sunday' should be observed by the churches to honor the millions of toilers who daily serve mankind in the humble places of life. "The Presbyterian department of church and labor called attention to this last year, requesting the nearly 8,000 Presbyterian ministers in this country to preach on some phase of the industrial problem on the Sunday before Labor day. The response to this appeal was most gratifying. "A similar suggestion has gone out from our office for the coming 'Labor Sunday,' and already the indications are that the matter will be taken up by practically every Presbyterian minister, besides a good many ministers of other denominations. "This effort to popularize 'Labor Sunday,' making it an annual affair, cannot but result in great good to the cause of the workingman. But in order to make the plan most effective, workingmen themselves must cooperate with the churches. I would, therefore, suggest that wherever a minister takes advantage of this occasion to preach on the labor problem, the workingmen in his community turn out in force to listen to his address. Wherever it is possible my suggestion would be that either local unions or central bodies take official action, not only indorsing such a movement on the part of the minister, but that they resolve to attend the service in a body, previously notifying the preacher to that effect. "The Way of Mankind. Most men are apt to believe what they least understand.—Montaigne.

NO FOOLISH LATIN ON STATUES, SAYS WILSON

WASHINGTON.—Plain, everyday barnyard English, and no high falutin' Latin for Tama Jim Wilson. The secretary of agriculture has given a rude shock to the sculptors who heretofore have been wont to embellish architecture and allegorical designs and inscriptions suggesting linguistic association with the old masters and the classics. He has even gone so far as to compel the stonecutters to rechristen the inscriptions on the new agricultural building, the wings of which have been constructed ahead of the main portion. The new home for the department, which, when finished will have cost about $3,000,000, is now nearing completion, and the secretary is taking as much interest in its progress as though it were designed for a country home for himself. On the north shore are four pediments, in each of which are a male and a female figure, seated with a shield between them. On these shields are inscribed the four words "Fruitfulness," "Cereals," "Forests" and "Flora." A few days before leaving Washington for the summer the head of the department come into the office of his assistant and friend, Dr. Beverly T. Galloway, chief of the bureau of plant industry, who is also deeply interested in the plans for the building, and in the course of their conversation the pediments were considered. These are in full view of Dr. Galloway's office. In glancing at them and in looking at the photographs that had just been taken Secretary Wilson asked: "Doctor, what do these words mean? 'Fruitfulness,' what on earth is that?" "Why, that's Latin for fruit, and the others mean cereals, flowers and forest," replied the scholarly Galloway. "Well, why in — don't we say so, then, and cut out this foolish Latin?" was the prompt reply. Orders were then and there given that the stonecutters erase the offensive words and substitute up-to-date "United States." Dr. Galloway closed the incident by remarking that it was just as well to change them, as there was no such Latin word as "forests" anyway, and that, at least, would have to be changed.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT has signed an order creating the Torn Islands a Bird reservation. This is the eighth reservation for birds created by the president. It embraces all the "mud lumps," so called, in and near the mouth of the Mississippi river. The "mud lumps" are islands more or less temporary, and created chiefly by sedimentary deposits from the river. They seldom exceed an acre in size and are elevated from five to eight feet above high tide. They are occupied during the breeding season by large numbers of brown pelican and other terns. Many thousands of the various species breed in these places every year. These islands are useless for commercial or agricultural purposes and are reserved to protect the birds. The

PRESIDENT CREATES NEW RESERVATION FOR BIRDS

Islands are placed under the charge of the secretary of agriculture, who appoints wardens whose duties embrace frequent trips to them, putting up warning notices and otherwise preventing trespassers from molesting the birds, either out of curiosity or to collect plumes or eggs. The recommendation for this reserve was indorsed strongly by the National Association of Audubon societies for the protection of birds and animals, whose expert ornithologist and field agent visited the islands and filed an exhaustive report on the bird breeding qualities and feeding ground of the native fowl along that section of the coast. The creation of reserves of this character is strongly encouraged and supported by the League of American Sportsmen and similar societies.

TARS DESIRE CHANGE IN STYLE OF THEIR TOGS

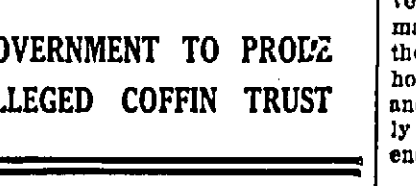

JACK TARS of the United States have made such a protest against the headgear and blouse they wear ashore and on dress occasions aboard ship that to meet the clamor of the enlisted men the navy department has appointed a committee on changes in the uniforms. Capt. Hugo Osterhaus, commander of the battleship Connecticut, is chairman of this committee. He has sent out a statement to the captains of all war ships in the north Atlantic squadron and to the commander of every ship in the service, asking for suggestions. The enlisted men are desirous of obtaining coats and visor caps. Many of them want the wide, flaring trousers, the world-round, luminous coat peculiar to sailor men, changed to the ordinary pattern, but the principal grievance relates to the blouses and the old-fashioned pancake caps. These caps are said by all seamen to be useless on a windy day, as they cannot be kept on the head. They give no shade to the eyes and seem to exist merely as a relic of the past. The protest over the blouse is considered justified. In the first place the blouse object to the wide collar which blows up around their ears on windy days. They want shorter neckerchiefs and coats cut like those of the marines. Should the sailors' demands be granted seamen will wear coats for the first time in the history of the American navy. The proposed changes would affect the 30,000 seamen in the navy and would entail a large outlay. It is believed that a change in the trousers will not be made at once, but that the tars will be supplied with coats and visor caps.

AN official investigation of the coffin trust must be deferred until the department of justice can find a few spare moments in which to give it attention. No inquiry has yet been instituted, and none will be undertaken for several months. It has become known that practically every coffin manufactured in the country is turned out at factories owned and operated by a trust almost as remunerative as the oil trust. It is declared that the men who head the coffin trust have made millions out of the business, and that their dividends virtually equal those of the Standard Oil company. The prices of coffins, it is stated by undertakers, have grown higher and higher each year. The living are being literally pillaged through their love for the dead, and funerals have everywhere become exceedingly costly. It is asserted among undertakers that the growing popularity of incineration is due, in a large measure, to the great expense of a regulation funeral. If incineration should become cheaper the coffin trust would have a dangerous rival.

How Roses Took Their Colors. "The rose in its richness is richest of flowers," sang one of the old-time poets. The legends generally assume, however, that roses were originally white. But one day Cupid, who, we know, hath oft disturbed life's wine, upset the nectar of the gods, spilling it over some roses, and immediately their petals were stained red, says the Circle. According to another story, roses were white until Venus stepped upon a thorn, and her blood stained her favorite flower. This last tradition lives in Spenser's verse: "White as the native rose before the change Which Venus' blood did in her leaves impress." Still another story is of a Bethlehem maiden as pure and sweet as a white rose. She was falsely accused of crime and condemned to be burned. When fires were lighted about her she appealed to heaven to save her and to proclaim her innocence. Miraculously the flames gave place to yellow roses and the burning coals to red ones. When the Greeks met in secret councils a rose was suspended over the table as a sign that nothing heard there was to be repeated. Hence the rose—under the rose—signified secrecy. Not Love, But— Edith's Papa—And so you love my daughter? Edith's Admirer—I do, indeed, sir; I cannot tell you how much I love her. Mrs. Margaret Emmerich, of Clinton St., Napoleon, O., says: "For fifteen years I was a great sufferer from kidney troubles. My back pained me terribly. The Three Milkmen.

A man in a small western town bought a quart of milk and on arriving home found it was adulterated with water. The next day he posted bills in different sections of the town reading: "I bought a quart of milk yesterday which I found to be adulterated. Architects and Closets.

An architect, says a writer, complains that women have a mania for closets and that when a woman is allowed any liberty in the matter she changes his whole architectural plan in order to make room for them. "This, he says, makes him a building stock among his fellow architects. This is very interesting, but why do architects make plans if not to make every effort themselves to secure conveniences? A house may be architecturally perfect and yet not fit to live in, and it certainly is not if there is not closet room enough.

WHAT'S THE USE?

To Pour in Coffee When It Acts as a Vicious Enemy.

Fasters have gone without food for many days at a time but no one can go without sleep. "For a long time I have not been sleeping well, often lying awake for two or three hours during the night but now I sleep sound every night and wake up refreshed and vigorous," says a Calif. woman. "Do you know why? It's because I used to drink coffee but I finally cut it out and began using Postum. Twice since then I have drunk coffee and both times I passed a sleepless night, and so I am doubly convinced coffee caused the trouble and Postum removed it. "My brother was in the habit of drinking coffee three times a day. He was troubled with sour stomach and I would often notice him getting soda from the can to relieve the distress in his stomach; lately hardly a day passed without a dose of soda for relief. "Finally he tried a cup of Postum and liked it so well he gave up coffee and since then he has been drinking Postum in its place and says he has not once been troubled with sour stomach."

In Cornish (Eng.) chapels the invariable rule is for the men to sit on one side of the building and the women on the other.

A visitor and his fiancée, who are staying in the district, went to chapel, and just before the service began the young man was greatly astonished when the chapel steward, observing that the couple were seated in the same pew, came over to him and, in an audible voice, said: "Come on out of that, me son; we don't ave no sweethearts in 'ere."
